

MISSIONS ARRIVAL

MINISTRY AT MOODY AVIATION.

Collin's work has picked up significantly since last quarter. The students returned to flying in greater numbers in August. With all this flight time, Collin and the team have been busy with increasing aircraft inspections. There have been many times when what began as a straightforward tune up evolved into an involved, multi-system repair. Thankfully we have a number of students with their maintenance license who are able to help out. These opportunities are great for the students, giving them the chance to improve their skills and gain experience.

During one such time we had 4 students assisting on a longer inspection. What would have taken the production team 3 to 4 days was completed in just a day and a half thanks to the students help. This shared time also allows Collin to connect with and encourage many students. In order to ease the busy schedule we are actively searching to hire an additional mechanic, and a parts room manager. We would appreciate prayer that God will provide the right team member for each position.

We are currently serving with Proclaim Aviation Ministries at Moody Bible Institute's Missionary Aviation School in Spokane, WA. Collin is an aircraft mechanic and Elena is a NICU nurse. We are blessed to be a part of training future missionary aviators while we prepare for our own potential ministry overseas--using aviation to sustain ministry at the ends of the earth.

Equipping the Next Generation of Aviation Missionaries

HOME FRONT.

Fun baby fact: September is the most common birth month across the country! In Washington, it's July that takes that title. With both of those facts, it's no wonder that Elena and the NICU have been busy these past months. She works 2 or 3 nights a week, primarily with babies who still need respiratory support or are developing their feeding skills in preparation to go home. Since things are quieter at night, she looks forward to these times with parents as an educator and encourager while they wait to bring their baby home.

Elena has also been able to connect more with the other women at Moody through baby playdates and a weekend retreat. It's been a great encouragement to walk alongside staff, staff wives, and students in this way.

Elijah had his first birthday at the end of July and has fully embraced being a toddler. He is running and tumbling and laughing and expressing all sorts of opinions. We are figuring out how to love and discipline well, and invite prayer as we continue this journey of parenthood.

PARTNERSHIP.

We are so thankful for all of you who have become financial supporters in our mission, and are excited to partner in this journey with you. We have reached 55% of our required monthly support goal. We praise God for His provision, and pray that He will continue to call more people and churches to join our ministry team. We would love to invite anyone interested in sustaining ministry to the ends of the earth to pray and consider partnering with us, whether that is $25, $50 or $100 a month, whatever you feel God is calling you to give.

Thank You! Collin - Elena & Elijah
